Informed Consent for Homeopathic Consultation/Education

Homeopathy is a holistic methodology that views health and illness from a different perspective than the standard, conventional medical approach. The homeopathic consultation takes the whole person into consideration and regards the spiritual, mental and emotional symptoms as important as the physical aspects. The homeopathic consultation may include suggested biological regimens (derived from plant, animal, or mineral source) and lifestyle counseling. These suggestions are not offered as cure for disease, but only as supportive measures to aid the body's own inherent healing energy and assisting mechanisms in rebuilding itself to a healthful foundation.

I understand that:

- Olga Saletsky does not intend to or imply that she is diagnosing or treating medical disease.
- Any homeopathic recommendations I may be offered during my visit are not intended as the practice of medicine. Homeopathy is not a replacement for standard or emergency medical care. As a client, I may need to also consult a health care professional.
- The suggestions I may receive are educational in regards to the utilization of natural methods for building and maintain health.
- Side effects to homeopathic treatment, although uncommon, may include temporary worsening of present symptoms (aggravations) or temporary development of new symptoms (proving symptoms).
- No guarantee has been made for the outcome of services provided and that I may discontinue participation in services offered at any time.
- All information discussed during the homeopathic consultation is confidential and may not be revealed to anyone without written permission, except where disclosure is required by law.

My signature below indicates that I have read the information in this document, agree to abide by its terms, and hereby consent to homeopathic services from Olga Saletsky.
